MATRIMONIAL MISERY.

How a Clergyman was Reduced to De th's Door by the "Nagging" of His Wife.

From the New York Express A remarkable case of conjugal infe-licity has come to light in Massachuyou." Unwilling to go to the country where they neither marry nor are given for themselves, in marriage, he politely

REPUSED TO YIELD HIS THROAT to her clutches, but he told her that he would sooner die than let the pubhe know the story of their wretchedness. It appears, however, that, un-willing to have a funeral on her hands, she left him to his fate, whereupon he regained his health, got fat and happy, and did not faint but once for mouths, and then it was caused by hearing that she was coming back. The judge told the young minister that he could not grant him a divorce on the ground of cruelty, as he had condoned that tion, but he could grant one at the pected, and disappointing to the sixtynine ladies who had filed into the court room to testify as witnesses in their pastor's behalf. It is decidedly a unique case in every way, as the TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OLDER ought not to be married and begged to be released. Whereupon the dear young thing cried in the most approved and affecting style, complained badly of heart-break, and declared the young ladies pity him, and work slippers and handkerchiefs and other delicate articles for him, and call her "that horrid old thing"-well, it is easy enough to see that her situation was enough to turn the sweet milk of woman's kindness into bonny-clabber.

Really it is heart stifling. Sylvanus
Cobb never invented a more unique experience for one of his three-dollar stories than this piece of realism.
